Change of Residential Solid Waste Service for Some Customers

The city of Glendale is changing solid waste residential services for some areas that receive bulk trash and refuse collection in an alley. Those selected alleys will be transitioning to curbside service beginning January 1, 2022. The refuse 300-gallon-containers will be removed from the alleyway and a new non-shared, 90-gallon trash container will be delivered to the front of the affected homes for weekly service. Additionally, all bulk trash will be placed curbside for scheduled monthly service. This cost-effective service change will keep the alleys safer and cleaner. The city will do its best to transition alley service to curb service with minimal disruption to residents. All directly impacted households will receive more information prior to any changes. District Boundaries

Every ten years, Glendale is required to redraw its city council districts based on data from the U.S. Census. The process is called redistricting, and the goal is to ensure each district has approximately equal population. Since the 2010 census, an additional 21,604 people call Glendale home. After a series of public meetings, your City Council adopted new council district boundaries for the city's six districts.

A Message from Vice Mayor Ian Hugh

The past year was record-breaking for growth in Glendale, and I am excited to share some of the highlights.

Thanks to the annexation of thousands of acres in the Loop 303 area, we have attracted new world-class corporations. The 15 million square feet of development in this area brings new career opportunities to Glendale.

Near the Arrowhead corridor, we welcomed three additional luxury dealerships: Land Rover, Jaguar, and Volvo. Banner Health opened its first "Banner Health Center Plus," a $65 million project. Phoenix Children's Hospital Arrowhead broke ground on a 225,000 square foot full-service hospital complex bringing an investment of nearly $135 million to the City.

In Downtown Glendale, Brooklyn Bedding is near completion on their new headquarters around Bethany Home Rd and 51st Avenue. The 648,000 square foot facility will bring 400 jobs to Glendale.

The Sports and Entertainment District continues to be a driver for new businesses and residents. Over 5,000 single and multifamily housing units are being built. Under construction and soon to make a "splash" is the Crystal Lagoons Island Resort with three hotels, a 10-acre lagoon, and the first Mattel Adventure Park in the Country. Other exciting announcements include Tiger Woods' Pop Stroke mini-golf and Thirsty Lion Gastropub. Both are expected to break ground early this year.

Heading into 2022, we know that even more projects will be announced as businesses strive to be open by Super Bowl 2023. Once again, Glendale will be on the world's stage.

Artists Celebrate Black History

Explore Black History Month through two artist presentations at the Main Library Auditorium.

Sunday, February 6, 2-3:30 p.m.

Jenita Landrum, an ASU alumna, a professional painter and installation artist, describes her work as "educational, beautiful and edgy." "This and That," her most recent exhibition, uses everything from watercolor to German toilet paper. Discover how this experimental journey through the art process allows spectators to reflect on the representation of race, gender and class in art.

Monday, February 7, 6-7:30 p.m.

Learn about the lives and cultures of Appalachian African Americans from South Central West Virginia through the research of Jacqueline Chanda. After 28 years of teaching and research in art education at several universities, Dr. Chanda is now a full-time oil painter in her studio in Tucson, AZ.

These programs are funded by the City of Glendale Public Art Program and are a part of Vision & Sound: An African American Experience.

Live @ the Library: A Family Concert with the Mill Ave Chamber Players

Monday, February 28, 6:30-7:30 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Enjoy a new setting of Aesop's Fables and a set of North American Folk Tales, performed by the Mill Ave Chamber Players and composed by their bassoonist, Tom Breadon.
