CRISIS RESPONSE VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR TO BE HONORED BY PHOENIX COYOTES

Glendale, Ariz. — Glendale Fire Crisis Response volunteer Dan Younkin will be honored at the Phoenix Coyotes' next home game, which takes place Wednesday night against the San Jose Sharks. Dan, who just was named Glendale Fire's Crisis Response 2012 Volunteer of the Year, received 2 tickets on the glass for the game and $100. The Coyotes are recognizing Dan through their Pay It Forward program, a program designed to recognize people who do great things in the community.

Dan is a dedicated volunteer who has donated over 1400 hours to the crisis response program in just one year. "Dan constantly demonstrates the crisis response values of kindness, compassion, caring and integrity to not only those he serves while on shift but also to his coworkers," stated Megan Hanks, Crisis Response Coordinator.

The Crisis Response Team is made up of dedicated volunteers trained by the Glendale Fire Department. They specialize in being compassionate & professional during a time of need. Some Team members have a background in behavioral health, crisis intervention or emergency medicine. For more information on the Crisis Response Team or to become a volunteer, please visit
