GLENDALE FIRE DEPARTMENT HANDLES HOUSE FIRE-OCCUPANTS DISPLACED

Glendale, Ariz. — Fire originated on or under a couch that was being stored against the north exterior of the house. The fire destroyed the electrical panel and extended slightly into the attic.

Initial statements from one of several children living there was that they had been playing in the front area of the house, including on the couch. A lighter was found under the couch during the investigation.

Glendale Fire Department reminds parents to store matches and lighters in a safe area away from children.
