Daniel White Homicide Investigation

Glendale, Ariz. – Glendale Homicide Detectives working the March 10th, 2014 murder investigation of 26 year old Daniel White can now say, based on several consistent factors and evidence, they are confident Andrew Joseph Rael is the suspect responsible for the murder of AM/PM convenience store clerk Daniel White. The investigation continues and further forensic analysis will be conducted to further confirm Rael's involvement in the homicide case.

The motive for the murder of Daniel White is still unknown. That night, Detectives believe suspect Andrew Rael initiated a verbal altercation with Daniel White, who was working as a convenience store clerk at the AM/PM. Surveillance video shows the suspect exiting the convenience store after purchasing gasoline. The suspect then drives his vehicle to the front of the convenience store and confronts White who was standing outside the store smoking a cigarette. Witnesses heard White asking the suspect to leave the property shortly before the suspect produced a gun and murdered Daniel.

The Glendale Police Department continues to work in coordination with the Tempe and Buckeye Police Departments reference all three department's investigations involving Rael. At this time, Glendale Police Detectives do not have information that leads them to believe there are any additional suspects in this homicide case other than Rael. The Glendale Police investigation is still ongoing.
