FORTUNE 100 COMPANY SELECTS GLENDALE FOR MAIL-ORDER PHARMACY FACILITY

GLENDALE, Ariz. – One of the nation’s largest publicly traded health and supplemental benefits companies, Humana Inc., will open a new mail-order pharmacy facility in Glendale in March. The company will relocate 300 employees from an existing facility to the new Glendale facility, and also expects to add as many as 150 new positions at the Glendale site by the end of 2011.

The addition of this Fortune 100 company to Glendale’s sports and entertainment district completely fills up 91 Glendale Corporate Center located at 91st and Glendale Avenues. Humana will occupy a three-story, open-space office building that includes hundreds of office and work spaces, open meeting spaces, conference and training rooms.

“This news not only enhances Glendale’s line-up of corporate partners who call the city home, but also strengthens our impressive listing of health care industry institutions,” states the city’s Economic Development Director, Brian Friedman. “We enthusiastically welcome Humana to our community and look forward to the opening of this center next month.”

The office complex will be home to Humana RightSourceRx,sm the company’s prescription home-delivery service. The convenience of mail-order delivery and continued growth of Humana’s Medicare Advantage health plan membership have created increasing demand for RightSourceRx’s services and necessitated the need for the new facility in Glendale.

The 300 Humana associates who are relocating to Glendale are coming from an existing company facility in Tempe.

“The continuing growth of Humana’s home-delivery prescription service demonstrates that we are committed to improving our members’ health care experience,” said William Fleming, PharmD., vice president of Humana’s pharmacy division, Humana Pharmacy Solutions. “The opening of this new front-end operations facility is a testament to our commitment to provide outstanding service to our customers and also a credit to the quality of the Phoenix-area workforce and excellent business climate in the area.”

Humana’s decision to choose this area of Glendale represents the city’s goal of continuing to transform its Loop 101 region into a major employment district.
